

September 13, 2018

Life wasn't meant to be this way. Talk about an annoying thought process. Perhaps it was meant to be difficult. In comes the suffering. Don't we all suffer at times? It is part of the great plan created for our happiness. With all of the crazy things which happen in this life, how is it we can call it a plan of happiness? Doesn't just make much sense now does it?

It is but a thought process upon which a mind can be broken for reasons beyond our own control. If we but learn from the mistakes of those things past, we would be better off, would we not?

So what is the point of this life? There doesn't appear to be much in the way of anything. We are but people waiting for something better to come along. If that's all which matters in this life, then really is nothing worth living for and all should be worsened because of it. So, where exactly does that leave us? I do not know.

It can come to light that a person might do as they wish. However if it goes against the feelings which you have been taught, then you must forget it. Such is the law of the land.

September 14, 2018

There are many things in this life upon which things matter. Some things matter now, while other things can wait a while. Either way, here we are.

Some would have you believe there is nothing after this life. Well then has to be something. I didn't come here for nothing. At least I hope I didn't. If I did? Then all of this is garbage and nonsense and we are but doomed from the get go. A life beyond anything and everything which will come our way such is a life beyond anything which we can only imagine.

So, we simply live and have to believe in ourselves. If we do not. There is nothing we can do about it. We are but a lost vessel tied to an unknown dock at sea. Trying and hoping to be able to simply figure out this life.

It is but a life in which we strive to live. There are moments when we cannot simply go into the night quietly. Nothing else of it might matter at that point. Yet as a key addressing, here we are.

Many days come along and we are but denied the fact a person cannot always choose what will become of them. I would rather not have a feeling regarding any of this. But I want to have a good aspect in life. If that is meant to be a punishment, then so be it.

If we are all here for a reason, or specific reasons, are we not meant to confirm and understand such reasons? Yes, one would believe such. If that were not the case we would end up and God would cast judgement based upon worse and nothing to do with regarding our eternal soul and life in this mortal coil.

However if all of this life is a hoax, then it is one of the best hoaxes of the 19th and 20th centuries. That is only a small possibility which occurs beyond the means from such a life. For we might be doomed.

It feels quite cold in the office today. I cannot tell you where any of this is working or will work out. All I do know is this life can and will get better.

Another thought to be had would be to figure out things which might actually happen. Being in the ability to live out such a life. We are but here to learn experiences and grow from such experience. That is the main key to it all. Do not waste a day which goes by. You might never get a full understanding of how this life will fill itself out. If it does? Then here we are.

Be of good cheer. There is nothing wrong with that thought, it can ringly more away beyond any and all thoughts which come our way in this big blue marble.

If there is anything in this life that is good, should we not seek and look after these things? One would think it would come across as a normal thought process. Yet here we are without any kind of safety net. So let's see what is out there all to simply find out all which is going on.

There are days which come and go where we simply cannot grasp what is going on. We do not have the full ability to comprehend all we wish to find out. So here we are hoping for a better life to come. What happens if that doesn't get better? I mean that is simply how we figure it all out. Such a life to be able to find out what is going on with any of it.

People in this life come and go, that is what all this life is about. Coming and going. It is but a thought which comes into our mind and thoughts. Yet that is all that comes across to everyone beyond any and all reason. Yet we have to figure out why we are here. Let us all figure out why this life must exist. For here we all are. Welcome to life!

So many things occur in this life. Why must we have to deal with half of it? Talk about a lot of messed up ways and how people deal with what goes on. Maybe it is meant to be, maybe it's not. Such a life is only destroyed long before we all come to an agreement.

Some people will try and tell you how to live your life. Then would have you do as you please. Allowing people to choose their own thought process is essential to this life. There is nothing wrong with that. Yet people still get hung up on it. No matter where you go, people will get hung up on a lot of things which aren't important.

There are days where I just wonder from time to time. Nothing ever fully makes sense. If everything made sense in this life, we could maybe more fully grasp and hold onto everything which happens in this life. Maybe it has to do with how often we wish to come closer to a truth.

There are always issues with those thoughts as well. It is but a life in which we cannot find everything that happens or come from any of it.

And so here we are.

I'm not sure I ever wanted to be part of anything in this life. Maybe there are reasons beyond my own controls. If that is the case, there is nothing out there for me to figure out. I am but here looking for something which I cannot afford to realize at the moment. It all will come crashing down upon us all and we will find out soon enough.

To say we are but thoughts floating around in space, we are but nothing compared to exhausted beings from on high. So here we are waiting for something better to come along and find us. If we do not, then our progression must be stopped.

But I am getting ahead of myself. This life has got to find a different way of looking about regarding that which we are actually looking to find hope and peace in this life.

Let us not be weary in well doing. There is a time and place for everything. Sometimes we get caught up in those things which do not matter. Other times we need to actively look for something which is out there. It would be nice to have a full final answer or response to any and all of it. But that is not always the case.

If this life was meant to make sense, one could suppose it wouldn't be so confusing as it is. However, there might be something out there. Perhaps it could be a good thing if you honestly wished for a better life and a non impossible thought process. That is the life which we should strive for. That is what should be looked to.

Take what you can from something the given all you are able to. Do not look back behind you. There is no point in any of that. If you do that simple thought, you will be able to do anything in this life.

And you will be happy with regards to it.

Happiness comes from within. No one can create or take your happiness from you. It is all but an internal process to be figured out.

If a person cannot see the good within themselves, they are on shaky grounds. In order for a person to understand and grasp who they honestly are, they cannot begin to grab hold of the truth that is them. That is how it is and how it was. How it will be and how everything else shall forever be.

To ignore those who would help instill confidence within you is to constantly ignore your self-worth. You do not have the ability to communicate with others who are around you. It is but a thought process. Not all thoughts are made to be consistent and not all feelings are real. It is a day where nothing fully exists. Everything else will fall into place. Will it make sense? I dare say no. It won't and that is quite okay in its own right. So there we sit, waiting for something better to come along.

Thu Sep 18, 2018

If we are but here alone in such a journey, why else would there be more of a presence among us? How does that indeed work out? Life has a tendency to come and go. There's not much to be had from any of it. Take about a most forgetful thought and then you have it. A crazy amount of peace wouldn't even make this life perfect. It has got to all come crashing down at some point. I mean here we are trying to live a day at a time and it is but a waste of time and energy.

Fri Sep 19, 2018

Crazy day for sure. Take about a nightmare. Perhaps a day messed up beyond any kind of normality. What ever happened to those days when life actually made sense and everything else mattered. If nothing ever happened like you would expect, it is but a matter of life. Again nothing makes sense most days so here we sit.

Anyhoo, life happens long before you know it. Here we are simply sitting waiting for anything to occur. Something in this life has got to make sense somehow. There are just so many ideas and thoughts out there that need to make sense!

However this is but a simple thought of life. Oh but a thought which has been prepared long before anything else out there. Who knows what is out there? Oh so many things which can happen out without the world which comes everything in this life. See? No sense.

What do we do about this life now? There has to be nothing to be said about all of it. Such a waste of time to me. Really, this life is a crazy part of it all. Why even exist?

When a friend leaves, you cannot become accustomed to them staying around. Getting attached to people is never a good thing. It can and will destroy you. Everything comes crashing down around you. Everything will die. Nothing lasts forever. That is the way of this life.

Oh life, why do you annoy me so much? It doesn't quite make sense. So this is why you bother me so much. Talk about a crazy thought process only a person not to believe in or trust yourself.

I could scream right now. Like really scream!

However I shall not scream because that would cause attention to myself. I could use a typewriter, that would be quite good and very annoying. Something like that. Possibly a good thing.

Maybe all of this is meant to blow over? If it's not? Then what is any of it meant to do? Who cares about any of this? I simply do not understand or can grasp such a concept. Let's first off consider what it means to be alive. If you cannot figure that out, well where will you end up exactly? I highly doubt any of this life will fully make sense. I mean. How is that possible?

Given the thoughts and ideas which come to my mind, I cannot for the life of me figure out all that happens in this life. Let's attempt to figure out all which comes our way. If we do not, there is nothing to go off of and we are quite lost as to the process which enters our minds.

Allow it all to go.

Do not hesitate in making yourself happy.

If this life has taught me anything, why would it give me the ability to not handle situations which come into our lives? Feels a bit like a waste of time. A method of destruction which is meant to not allow us to continue in this life. Talk about an idea simply waiting for us to be destroyed. All but a prospect upon which we can become nothing. Yes, something which will do the most harm if only to kill us beyond any and all things of this earth.

Before we know it, we are gone and there is nothing we are able to do with any of it. Destiny is at the base of everything. We will be doomed long before we will be saved by some - kind of heavenly messenger or being. That is all there is to any of it.

I wonder what will take place in our lives when all is said and done. Will there be peace? Will there be a way for anything to be accomplished? This I do not know or have a clue about. It is but a thought long forgotten for us to make thought of. Are we not all lost and forgotten beyond any and all possibilities of this life?

It is but a question I wouldn't mind having an answer to. So I will leave it at that and allow nothing else to become of it. If something were to come along, that would be a different matter. Let us not worry ourselves with these thoughts. It is but a long lost forgotten myth. A fable to not see the light of day.

If there is a reason for this life to be, someone should try and figure out what all the missed opportunities are regarding any of it. Sure none of that makes any sense.

I don't suppose any of it will always make sense. I mean, what happens if this life turns out to be a mess? What happens then?

Is this life simply over at that point? If it is, I guess that's a good thing. If it is? Then we are simply doomed.

Thu Sep 20, 2018

There is not a single day in which we cannot find anything to be happy about. Why should there be happiness when nothing else matters? This life is but a solid waste of energy, holding on for nothing to be able to grab hold of.

Don't look back, there nothing for you there. Everything you worked for, hoped for, and dreamed of is ahead of you. There is nothing behind you at all. So why try and go do that which has been tried already and done before? There is nothing out there which can make a person think or do what they do not wish to do.

So make something of your life now. While you can. To do otherwise is to admit defeat. A defeat which would turn you upside down and topsy-turvy long before anything else would take place and might matter. It is inevitable to feel such timing in such a life.

What is it about this life that causes so much anger inside? Talk about a nightmare. But I was born with nightmares, is that not enough?

What happens now? do them something after this life that will make everything all kinds of better? Who's to say exactly how any of that is meant to work.

Maybe it could end with a flame of fire. It might end in a blaze of light. Either way, such a life will become something. Anything. Maybe it will all just simply end. There is no place after this world. We are all simply being led safely away to nothing. Is it a relief? This I do not know or have a clue. Either way, this life will eventually find a way to end. Can that be a thing? This I do not know. However, it won't keep me from stopping to think about it.

To explain things the way I see it all is to but grasp at straws. Accept what is and do not look beyond the logic which you have control over. It really is that simple.

Where does a person go from here exactly? Does it even make sense? I do not know or have a clue about how any of this will turn out. Arent we all simply just here looking for something better to do with our lives? One would think that's how all is meant to be. On the other hand, we are but a simple thought in our own existence, are we not? Maybe it would all cease to be if we are meant to not exist. Such a life that doesn't make sense. All of those things which come and go. And here we are all just sitting here, doing nothing. Sadness and anxiety have a way of destroying you. Talk about a not good idea or thought which pops into my brain! However that is a thing which comes along and so we are but here waiting to simply be destroyed by some kind of thought process. All considered gone in an instant. Is that not good enough for all to be said and done?